MIDDLEBURY ELEVEN APPEARS TO BE FAVORITE OVER GREEN AND GOLD; ANCIENT FOES PREPARE FOR CLASSIC

Blue and White Determined to Settle Old Score With U. V. M.

SATURDAY'S GAME TO DRAW CROWD

Vermont Will Stage Hard Fight to Retain Championship of State

By LLOYD C. HARRIS

Gathering together every bit of reserve energy and strength and bringing into use all of her football strategy, Middlebury will enter the annual Vermont gridiron classic on Saturday afternoon favored to win and with her prospects the brightest they have been in several years for defeating Vermont in what is virtually the State Championship. Even though neither team has yet encountered Norwich, the third team in the series, it is generally conceded that the cadet eleven will not be a serious conteneder this year due to her poor showing thus far.

In view of their remarkable success, so far this season the Blue and White is quite naturally the favorite in Saturday's traditional scrap, yet it is certain that Vermont will play the best game of the season and that she will do all in her power to break through the Middlebury defense, a task that other teams this season have found to be of considerable difficulty

To be sure Vermont has been going rather poorly all season but this is all the more important to Middlebury since it means that the Green and Gold will work doubly hard, first to beat Middlebury and secondly to get on the winning side of the score board again. In spite of all this, however, it is agreed that Vermont is weak this year. Sports writers all over the east admit it. Due to injuries or ineligibility several of the men that have been responsible for the Green and Gold's victories the past two years are absent from the line-up this year and the lack of these men has seriously crippled the Vermont eleven.

As far as comparative scores go everything points to a Midddlebury victory. The Blue and White has played four games while the Green and Gold have played but three. Furthermore Middlebury has met just as stiff opposition as Vermont and has come out the best. Vermont in her first game was able to run up only a 13-3 score against Providence College which is far from an impressive showing. In her second game Dartmouth ran wild thru her line and through her entire team piling up a 38 point lead while Vermont was unable to even score. At the same time Middlebury was playing an equally strong team in the form of Harvard and held her down to a 16-6 count.

The games this last Saturday seem to indicate fairly well the relative power of the two elevens. Springfield, which has been unusually weak all season put it over Vermont 7-0 while Middlebury was triumphing over Tufts to the tune of 26-7 and Springfield is certainly in about the same class as Tufts.

Or if you want to do a little figuring for yourself dope it out via this roundabout route. Connecticut Aggies beat Springfield 3-0. Tufts tied Conn. Ag-

COMPARISON OF MIDDLEBURY AND U. V. M. GAMES

Scores Since 1913 Show 3 Ties; 3 Midd Victories; 4 U. V. M. Wins

A survey of the Middlebury-Vermont game since football relations with the Green and Gold were resumed in 1913 shows that Vermont has won four of them while Middlebury has tucked away three victories and three have been tie games. This leaves Vermont one victory ahead of the Blue and White in the state Series but on Saturday there is little doubt that the number of victories for each eleven will be evened up, and in quite proper fashion too.

During the past two years Vermont has been triumphant in the annual Vermont State tilt but the pendulum seems to be swinging back this year towards Middlebury. It is interesting to note that in all of the games between the two institutions the score has been a low one and always very close, with the exception of 1922 when Vermont with a team that outweighed Middlebury completely ran up a 32-0 score.

The football rivalry between U. V. M. and Middlebury first came into being in 1894 when the two colleges contracted for a three game series. In the first game, played at Burlington Vermont won 10-0. The next game was played at Middlebury and this time the Blue and White gave Vermont a dose of their own medicine to the tune of 10-0. The final and deciding game in the series that year was started in Vergennes but there seemed to be no neu-

ANNUAL RALLY BANQUET ON EVE OF THE BIG GAME

Nearly 50 Alumni to be Present; College Orchestra to Furnish Music

The Annual Rally Banquet will be held in the McCullough Gymnasium on the evening of October 24, the eve of of the game with U. V. M. Chairman C. Vose, '25, and his Committee have made plans for two hundred and fifty. Nearly fifty alumni of this section have signified their intention to be present. Miss Dutton, the College Dietitian will have charge of the preparation of the banquet itself. The College Orchestra under the direction of Jack Lee, '25, will furnish the music.

It is hoped there will be a large number attending as the necessity of creating a real spirit for this game has been felt all week. Good speakers have been chosen, among whom are Coach David Morey, Coach Arthur W. Brown and Capt. Marshall Klevenow.

"Mike" Furbush to Lead Frosh

Two ballots were needed to elect the Freshman football captain after Chapel yesterday. On the first ballot Rollin A. Furbush, Gordon E. Wiley, Thomas M. McCann and George R. Hinman were nominated. "Mike" won on the second ballot.

TUFTS GRIDSTERS TROUNCED 26-7 BY BLUE AND WHITE WARRIORS IN AVENGING LAST SEASON'S DEFEAT

U. V. M. TO TRY NEW PLAYS AGAINST BLUE ON SATURDAY

Expects to Have All of First String Men in Game on Porter Field

Vermont's defeat at the hands of Springfield Saturday did not discourage Coach Keady's players, the game having been played by second string men to a large extent owing to injuries sustained in previous games, and Monday the squad started practice for the first game of the Vermont state series, that with Middlebury this week.

Although Vermonts' eleven is below par this fall, the coaches have succeeded in making improvements over each week, and with the return of the first string players who have been on the injured list the coaches and players as well have hopes of presenting a real combination in the Middlebury game Saturday.

Tarpey, Yarnell and Harms will all be back in the line-up for the Vermonters unless further injury this week prevents. Tarpey and Yarnell will be the mainstays of the backfield and will increase Vermont's chances a hundred per cent in the passing game which last Saturday proved a failure in their absence since Tarpey does the passing for Vermont while Yarnell usually receives.

Practice sessions at Vermont will be secret again this week, and the players are expecting to be instructed in new plays for the first game of the state series with the view of strengthening the offensive which so far this season has been considerably weaker than the defense.

First Quarter Gives Jumbos Chance to Score; Kick Blocked—Goal Fails

KLEVENOW, PAPKE, LOBO SCORE

Middleburv Piles up Points in Second Quarter; Schroder Scores for Tufts

By LLOYD C. HARRIS

By uncovering one of the most sensational overhead attacks ever witnessed in Tufts Alumni Oval, Middlebury decisively trounced Tufts 26 to 7 on Saturday afternoon, and secured sweet revenge for the defeat suffered at the expense of the Brown and Blue last year. In a way the Blue and White victory was considerable of a surprise to Tufts as they had drilled long and diligently on the Middlebury plays and Saturday morning's papers had predicted that Middlebury would have a hard time with Tufts—but she didn't.

During the first period both teams battled on even terms with frequent resorts to punting which gave Tufts two chances to score. McDonnell attempted a drop kick from the 40 yard line which was blocked and just before the close of the period a try for a goal from the thirty yard line missed the posts by a few inches.

Early in the second period a break came for Middlebury when a poor punt by French was downed on Tuft's 25 yard marker. Hollquist tore thru for 12 yards on the first play after which Lobo and Hollquist by line plunges placed the ball on the two yard line. Papke went in for Shorty Rice at quarter back and called for a play which sent Capt. Klevenow thru the Tufts right wing for a touchdown. The extra point was missed.

Before Tufts had hardly realized that the Blue and White had scored another touchdown was in the offing as Lobo ran the ball back ten yards after which Hollquist heaved a beautiful forward to Potter that gave Middlebury a gain of 40 yards placing the ball on Tufts 30 yard line. Lobo gained by a line plunge after which Papke ore around the end for a gain. Klevenow gained on a line plunge placing the ball on the one yard line. Tufts stiffend here for two downs; then Papke broke thru for the second touchdown with Capt. Klevenow kicking the goal.

Tufts came back strong in the second half with a trick formation that fell short of its accomplishment and netted only 28 yards, followed by a ten yard pass from French to Taylor. Tufts then attempted three more forwards but Bill McLaughlin made the attempts failures for Tufts. Middlebury took the ball on the next play and Lobo tore thru center for a gain of 30 yards to the Tufts 20 yard counter. Hollquist, Lobo and Klevenow made consistent gains with Lobo breaking thru for the touchdown. Klevenow's kick for the extra point was blocked by True.

Middlebury's final touchdown came in the last quarter when a pass from Papke to Lobo carried the ball from Middlebury's 40 yard line to Tufts 40 yard marker. Two more passes one from Hollquist to Lobo for 30 yards

Our Annual Classic

Each year there is one game on our schedule which needs no rally to stir up enthusiasm. All minds have but a single thought: "MIDD GET VERMONT!" Every other year our ancient rival meets the defenders of the Blue and White on Porter Field and alternating with them we have our pilgrimages to Centennial Field. This year we are to play the role of host to the Green and Gold team and its supporters.

With three victories to their credit our team appears to be the favorite in Saturday's conflict. While scores cannot always be taken as a "be all, end all" in predicting the outcome of a game, they still are a good thing to consider. In reading the summary of points scored by both teams so far this season and the total number scored against each we find that Middlebury has rolled up 69 to her opponents 23 while Vermont has managed to acquire only 13 to her opponents 48.

This is the game to which both sides have been looking forward with impatience. Other games have meant but little compared to the outcome of the annual tilt of these ancient athletic foes. Vermont would rather lose every game this season than see Middlebury be the victor. We are confident that this year—the first since 1919—the Blue and White will fly above the Green and Gold standard. Our team is play ing a smooth, efficient brand of football with wonderful offensive and defensive tactics. The fact that we have most of our old team back and that Vermont has lost nearly all of her lettermen will have a great deal to do with the outcome of Saturday's battle.

We must remember that we are the hosts. Nothing must be done to reflect upon the good name of the college. Keep your heads no matter what our opponents may do. Usually trouble is started by that class of rooters who do not belong to the institution, but who take advantage of an excursion to see a football game. A true collegian can rejoice over a victory or take a defeat without giving vent to his spirits in an exhibition of his pugilistic accomplishments.

It is needless to assure the team that we are behind them. They know how we feel and that every loyal Middlebury man and woman, and as many alumni as can come, will be in the stands Saturday cheering them on to victory. Here's wishing them good luck!

Count Ten

One of Middlebury's professors, when speaking at a recent rally, remarked with pride that Middlebury has real men. He did not need to add the rather obvious fact that Middlebury men are gentlemen and her women gentlewomen. However, this might be a helpful thought to keep in our minds during the present week, and especially on Saturday, when it may be hard at times under rather difficult circumstances to keep our heads. What anyone else may say or do should not affect us in the least. Because one misguided person has given way to his tehmper does not license us to follow an unworthw example.

On Saturday we hope to be what we have tried to be in the past, perfect hosts and hostesses, and that means to a certain extent keeping ourselves in the background, and consideration for our guests, regardless of what consideration they may show us. With such a keen feeling of rivalry as now exists, nerves are bound to be under great tension, but losing control is a sign of weakness; the man who can keep his temper, under no matter what circumstances, with quiet dignity has his own self-respect and everyone else's. Let's follow old fashioned advice and count ten before saying or doing anything that may later be of regret.

Someone said:

The time to make love to a woman
If you want her to listen, my lad,
Is when she's a bit weary
And just a little bit sad.

In response:

Never make love to a woman
Unless you be downright insane,
For when you tell her you love her
You've lost a crease from your brain.

Do you think that she will believe you
And take it for what it is worth?
Be not so illusioned ,my lad,
Such women don't exist on this earth.

Guess this will be a hot summer but that won't make any difference, only be careful girls and don't get your noses freckled. Wishing you all a Happy Fourth of July I am.

Physics students and profs take heed! Midd undergrads have disproved the accepted fact that all matter comes down with a velocity equal to that with which it goes up! In fact, 98 undergrads (to be exact) disproved it—and they used the walk leading down from Mead Memorial Chapel as their experiemntal grounds.

Did you hear about the fellow who didn't want to take C. C. because he had weak eyes?

"A penny saved is a penny earned," said John Dee as he dropped a washer into the gum machine.

LATEST BULLETIN

As yet no Yearling has fallen down the Old Chapel steps.

The rumors that Middlebury's football team this year is to be as good as Vermont's are utterly misleading. Vermont hasn't a chance with Midd.

Not all of this year's youngsters are as green as they look. Many are greener.

Our friend Lotta Fogg has sent us some handy pocket rules on How to Play a Ukelele, Wash the Teeth and Shake Down the Furnace in one Breath, and one edition. We have destroyed the dangerous document because we never could stand the noise occasioned by these various indoor athletics.

A Co-Ed passed a Frosh on the Campus the other day and with a very sweet smile gave him a merry "Hello." Did he keep silent? Absolutely NO!

As she passed we distinctly heard him cry: "Lead us not into temptation."

GAMBLING ON GAMES

By BURDETTE GRAHAM

They were both well dressed and apparently well fed. There were no corns on their hands that caressed the easy chairs in which they sat nor did any wrinkles show up on the well powdered brows. They were jellybeans of the first water.

"I have twenty-five bucks on the game with Washington tomorrow and I have a hunch that it is a good bet," said J. B. number one.

"I could only get twenty and had to give odds at that," was the reply of J. B. number two.

Now let's consider this species of college animal. They do not spin, neither do they weave. Their time is spent in loafing thru college. They go out to the games and occasionally make a practice to see how the team is progressing. When the big games come along they place their money where they think the best chance of winning is. Supporting the old college, college spirit is what they use for an excuse.

On the other hand there are some hundreds of men who go out to the athletic field every afternoon. They put on dirty, damp football clothes and go through all the hard traininng, take all of the hard knocks of the game. Three to four hours every day are given in practice and at night they slip in to their rooms so tired out that study is a task. They give all they have for the college and receive in return not one cent.

Leave out the moral equation and traditional religion. The man who wins money on the game is a parasite. He leaches his way thru college on the excuse that he is supporting the team.

Coolidge Wins Opening Straw Vote

DePauw students expressed an overwhelming preference for the Republican candidate in a straw vote taken September 30. President Coolidge scored 578 tallies; John L. Davis, 132; Robert M. LaFollette, 37; and W. Z. Foster, 3; Faris, Jones, Nations and Wallace received no votes at all.

The total was larger than that polled in the class elections which were held on the same day.—The New Student.

"SECRETS" SUBJECT OF LAST SUNDAY'S VESPER SERMON

Rev. R. L. Thompson of Troy Conference Academy Occupies Chapel Pulpit

The Rev. R. L. Thompson of the Troy Conference Academy, in speaking on the text, Eph. 1; 8, 9: "Wherein he hath abounded toward us in all wisdom and prudence; having made known unto us the mystery of his will," said, "God has made known to us His great secrets; His name, His character and His love. Yet we know little. There is no question so vital to the young people as, 'Where shall the investment of life be placed.' If only someone were wise enough to settle it for us. Will a God who has made known so many secrets to us leave us in the dark, or will He say, 'This is the light; walk you in it.' By the truths of the Bible God, will direct us in the place where we should be. Jesus points in the right way and nature itself tells us the secrets of God, concerning this matter.

"The farmer enriches the soil in the spring that he may better production in the fall. When in the full yellow ears we see the Master's hand we do not need to tell what was in His mind when He caused the farmer to enrich the soil in the spring. We do not need to tell what was in His mind when He made Man. By Man we do not mean every man—not the poor broken wrecks of humanity strewn along Life's stream, rather the stalwart ones who lift their faces to the sunlight, and follow in His footsteps. Such a one was David Livingstone who began at an early age to say, 'Yes' to God, and who later opened Africa to Christian Civilization.

"David Livingstone found the place in which his plans dovetailed with those of God. We all must do likewise. Out in the world God is calling men and women to become men and women of God.

"We always question before entering upon any undertaking, 'What is the cost? Are we able? 'It does cost to be square and straight in all things but prosperity comes to those whose lives are righteous. It is His almighty power which He uses to help us in the execution of His will. Let us go hand in hand with Him and the light of Christ will shine in us. Man, when he knows the great secrets of God, can dovetail his life with its little plans into the greater plans of God."

J. J. Fritz Appointed New College Business Manager

J. J. Fritz received the appointment to the office of Business Manager of the College on October 15th. His service to the college in the management of the Battell Forest Reserve and Bread Loaf Inn has been well repaid in the new office conferred on him.

The new business manager holds the degree of Bachelor of Science and before his graduation from Penn State in 1911 was a member of the Alpha Zeta and Phi Kappa Phi societies. He has had a great deal of experience in the Forestry Service. Mr. Fritz came to Middlebury in February 1923, from the White Mountains National Forest where he had been Forest Supervisor, and succeeded Prof. Terry in the Forestry department He has handled the responsibilities of Battell Reserve and Bread Loaf Inn admirably and is now taking over part of the work of Dr. E. Freshmen and Upperclassmen Take Part in Athletics

A good deal of interest is being taken in Women's Athletics this fall, and it has been estimated that at least 530 hours each week are being spent by Freshmen and Upperclassmen together in either tennis, hockey, or horseback riding.

Preliminaries in the tennis tournament have been finished with the following winners and runners-up: Seniors, Helen Sheldon and Lucia Goldthorpe; Juniors, Florence Smith and Elizabeth Goodale; Sophomores, Rachel Spear and Laura Anderson; Freshmen, Florence Lockerby and Ruth Potter. Both the singles and doubles matches between the classes will be played off this week.

Due to open rushing, general upperclass hockey practice has been held, instead of the individual class squad practice, thus enabling the girls to play their regular positions. For the rest of the week there will be individual class squad practice, and the interclass games will begin the first of next week.

On Thursday, October 16, some of the upper-class girls in the horseback riding classes enjoyed a trip to the East Middlebury Community house where a chicken pie supper was served.

The National College Straw Vote

Although the issue of the New Student announcing a nation-wide straw vote for the colleges has only been off the press for a few days many colleges have already signified a willingness to participate.

Each college will make its own arrangements for conducting the poll. The results will then be sent to the New Student offices in New York where they will be tabulated and sent to every college paper in the country. Student governments, college papers and local Y. M. and Y. W. C. A.s' are the organization which will as a rule take charge of the local voting.

Students Observors in Japan

Fifteen students from Colleges on the western Coast visited Japan during the past summer in order to gather information to lay before the Western America Student Convention which will be held at Asilomar on Monterey Bay, California, from December 27 to January 3. "PREXY" MOODY ADDRESSES FROSH

Gives Practical Advice and Comments to Members of 1928

President Paul D. Moody, when addressing the freshmen men Monday evening at Hepburn social hall, gave some exceedingly practical comments and advice, which were greatly appreciated by the class of 1928. He spoke in substance as follows:

"There is every indication that '28 will make a name for itself. Both in quantity and quality it is as good if not better than the more recent classes.

"Many have an idea that education consists only in going to school and college; this is a decidedly mistaken idea, for some of the greatest men never attended any college. A very liberal education may be obtained from observation and books.

"Speaking of Middlebury College, hazing is a quite recent importation. For several years it grew much rougher and was as a result at least one fellow was severely injured. Accordingly the trustees and faculty thought it wise to put it in subjection. Hazing always casts a gloom on a college when unfortunate results occur and the institution is dangerously liable to harbor a black name. Possibly many of the Frosh would be benefitted by hazing, but in the end it would not aid the college. The primary motive of hazing is relieving the new-comers of an amount of freshness and green-ness.

"Do not feel under religious obligation of making use of the limit of cuts. You have paid so much for the privilege of attending classes why not get your money's worth?

"The more things a college student participates in the better, as long as he can keep up his studies. Go out for football, go out for the Blue Baboon, and the Campus, but don't let school spirit rule.

"Middlebury is exceedingly fortunate in having an excellent library. But this, in the Freshman year ,should not be used only for the study of C. C.

"A respect for the Faculty and upper classmen ought to be cultivated by every Freshman. Informality frequently can be carried a bit too far, but it is far better to lean more to the other side."

President Moody, after giving several other practical hints, ended with an appeal that the aim and object for being here should be kept in mind.

Plans for Annual Soph Hop Now Under Way

Plans for the Sophomore Hop are well under way. As usual the dance will be held Thannksgiving eve, coming this year November 26. The committee hopes to secure for the evening Morey Pearl's orchestra from Boston. This is one of the best and most sought after dance orchestras in New England since they record for Brunswick records and will add a great deal to the success of the Hop. Miller Naylor, '27, is chairman of the committee and his co-workers are Misses Helen Ellsworth, Marion Glynn, Pauline Cross, Mary Birdsall, Margaret Sedgwick, Thelma Hazelton and Eleanor Goss, and Messrs. Richard Campbell, Mervin McCutcheon, C. Adams, Charles Shedd, Ames Minor, Marion Reighard and Carl Ellsworth.

Tennis Tournament Reaches Finals; Rich Wins

After many delays the tennis tournament has reached the finals. From the ten entrees of the Senior Class Henry Curtis '25 and F. B. Rich '25 were the longest survivals. Rich finally won in a 6-1, 6-0, 6-2 bout. Of the seven Junior entries Edward Twitchell '26 and Edward Hickcox '26 proved the strongest. Twitchell won from Hickcox 3-6, 6-3, 6-1. Paul Wolfskehl easily surpassed the five other contesting Sophs. Howard was his strongest opponent; theirs was a 6-0, 6-4 score. The fourteen Frosh had the toughest struggle for supremacy: Finally Dunz surpassed Young 6-1, 8-6, 6-1. There is a decided and increasing interest in tennis on the College courts this year.

"NEWSPAPERS" WHITING'S TOPIC

First Vocational Lecutre Is Given by Boston Journalist

Edward Whiting, of the Boston Herald, speaking in the Mead Memorial Chapel last Wednesday morning before the Middlebury student body discussed newspapers and their influence on the thought of the people.

"The equipment for newspaper work," said Mr. Whiting, "should be general, rather than specific. The best preparation for it is a good college education. There is no definite recipe that can be followed to attain success in newspaper work."

Mr. Whiting emphasized the fact that newspapers stand on a higher plane than they are often considered to. "We judge law by the best lawyers, not those who are corrupt; we judge business by the great businessmen, not the crooks in business—newspapers have their faults and failings also, for human nature always runs the same, but if you will judge them on the same standards as other lines, you will find the level of newspapers to be high. Newspapers do try to tell the truth."

Mr. Whiting spoke of the change in editorial writing today, saying: Dogmatism in editorial writing is past. Editorials cannot dictate as they used to. Papers nowadays have a more wholesome and constructive influence. They suggest a line of thought but allow the reader to draw his own conclusions. You should know why you hold your opinions and then be as solid in regard to them as you wish."

In closing, Mr. Whiting spoke of President Coolidge, characterizing him as an excellent example of the typical New Englander. "There is a quality in New England characters that requires companionship but regards speech as unnecessary. This quality is in President Coolidge but he can talk when he wants to." He gave several, interesting instances of the President's habit of silence.

Henry H. Eddy, '23, is teaching in the Dean Academy, Franklin, Mass.

FROSH GRIDMEN HANDED DRUBBING BY VERMONT

Poor Playing Causes Loss of Game Here last Saturday

McCHESNEY, HINMAN BOTH PLAY WELL

Fumbles and Breaks Predominate Throughout Entire Game

Playing a very poor brand of football the Freshmen suffered their first loss of the season last Saturday at the hands of Vermont Academy. Although losing by only one touchdown, the Frosh were outplayed at all times by the visitors. Lack of teamwork, fumbling and the continual grounding of passes lost the Blue team what little chance they had to score. The only bright spot in the Freshmen's play were several long end runs by McChesney and Hinman.

Middlebury started the game by kicking off. Vermont Academy immediately returned the kick which was fumbled by Gollnick and recovered by the visitors. Here they held and Vermont was forced to kick over the goal line. The return punt carried but 15 yards and it was V. A.'s ball on the 45 yard line. Here a long run and a delayed buck put the ball on the eight yard line. After several plunges at the line the visitors went over for the only score of the game. The try for point was good as the quarter ended.

After an exchange of punts in the second period Middlebury launched their first offensive. A completed pass and a 15 yard run by Hinman brought the ball to the visitors 40 yard line. However after several fumbles by the Frosh; Skinner intercepted a pass on his own 20 yard line. V. A. kicked out of danger and the half ended.

The half opened with Vermont kicking. After several plays an intercepted pass gave the visitors the ball. On the next play McChesney made a beautiful tackle nailing his man for a loss of ten yards. V. A. then kicked but lost 15 yards on a penalty. After several futile attempts at forwards Middlebury punted to the visitors' 30 yard line. Vermont after losing 12 yards on a fumble returned the kick 50 yards. The Frosh again grounded several passes as the quarted ended.

In the final period a fumble by Middlebury gave the visitors the ball on the 35 yard line. However the Frosh yielded but five yards in three plays. An attempt at a thirty yard drop-kick failed and it was the Frosh's ball on their own ten yard line. Two passes over the line gained 25 yards, but on the next play the ball was lost on a fumble. The game ended with the ball in midfield.

Tufts Trounced By Blue and White

and one from Hollquist to Papke for ten yards gave the Blue and White their fourth touchdown with Capt. Klevenow kicking the goal.

Tufts finally showed its offense late in the last quarter when a pass from Perry to Bolger gained nine yards and a gain of two yards by Schroeder gave them a first down and later a second. French fumbled and Middlebury recovered. Middlebury then attempted a forward which was intercepted by Schroeder who gained 25 yards on it, placing the ball on the Blue and White's 10 yard line. French went around the end for 5 yards and line plunges by Schoeder carried the ball over for the Tufts touchdown.

FROSH ELEVEN TO MEET WILLISTON ON SATURDAY

Yearlings to Make First Trip of Season; New Power is Developed in Practice

Middlebury's Frosh eleven goes to Williston, Mass., Saturday, on its first trip of the season, with new power and new spirit after a strenuous schedule of practice. The Yearlings made a very poor showing in the Vermont Academy game Saturday; lack of teamwork and a seeming inability to remember signals lost to them a game that should have gone into the victory column along side the first two of the year.

Coach Potratz has been doing a bit of shaking up in the squad to fit the material he has into the places where it is needed. No preparation can be too good for the game that is impending when '28 meets Williston. The Massachusetts warriors snatched a 13 to 7 win from Clark on the eleventh and, according to reports, they go onto the field with a team equal in every way to that of the scrappy Vermont Academy eleven.

Arnold, who was kicked in the head in Saturday's game, once more is able to rattle off signals. Mike Furbush, in spite of the terrific pounding which he made himself take, is still full of fight, ready to meet the new opponents, while McChesney also has recovered from the punishment he took. Wiley, the freshmen's huge guard, came from the field limping Saturday, but he is fit today. And the remainder of the team, under pressure of hard practice, is getting into the best of trim for the first invasion of foreign soil.

Middlebury Eleven Appears to be Favorite

gies 0-0. Middlebury beat Tufts 26-7 and Vermont lost to Springfield 7-0.

Middlebury does not underestimate the Green and Gold strength. It is certain they will uncover everything against the Blue and White but from end to end the Middlebury line is one solid stonewall of defense. It is a line that Harvard found impenetrable with in the shadow of the goal posts, a line that all opponents have found to be a tremendous difficulty in breaking thru or getting around, and it is upon this line that Middlebury is basing a lot of confidence and hope on Saturday. As for the Blue and White backfield--they will account for themselves and in creditable fashion too.

The Bonynge & Barker Law Firm of New York City has announced that Mr. Harlan, Middlebury 1910, has become associated with them in the practise of law.
